MEN FROM MIDDLE WEST MAY LOCATE IN UTAH

Albert W. Hadley, the local real estate man, has returned home from Minnesota, where he accompanied the body of his grandmother, Mrs. Susan R. Adams, who died in Ogden about three weeks ago. The body was interred at Owatonna, Feb. 14, and Mr. Hadley then went to Minneapolis and St. Paul for a ten days' stay.

In speaking of his trip, this afternoon, the Ogden man said he noted a great awakening of business in Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa. The winter months just passed had been unusually hard, but there were evidences of an early spring and an outlook for big crops. Many people, he said, are coming out of Canada on account of the war, leaving a condition of great depression.

Through conversations, Mr. Hadley learned that the Canadians were generally loyal to their mother country and would do everything possible in the way of furnishing troops and war appropriations. One effect of the war on Canada, he said, has been the rushing back in to the United States of hundreds of immigrants who were led into the neighboring country by opportunities for the obtaining of cheap lands.

While in Minneapolis, Mr. Hadley talked with a member of the German embassy at Washington. Relative to conditions expected to follow the war, the German said Russia would probably send many immigrants to settle in Wisconsin, Minnesota and the Dakotas. That this was likely, the Ogden man stated, is already being shown through the taking up of much

CONTEST OVER GIRL SENT TO STATE SCHOOL

Argument on a writ of habeas corpus, in the case of Elsie Dempsey, an inmate of the State Industrial school, was taken up before Judge N. J. Harris today.

A few days ago the mother of Miss Dempsey sued out a writ of habeas corpus, declaring that her daughter was illegally held at the state institution, and asking the court to release her. The contention was that the girl was 18 years old at the time of commitment and that the order of the juvenile court in Salt Lake was not based on a legal complaint.

Judge E. V. Higgins, assistant state attorney, argued the case for the state and Attorney Arthur Christensen of Salt Lake represented Mrs. Dempsey. Explaining the case to the court, Judge Higgins related that Miss Dempsey was brought before the juvenile court on a charge of incorrigibility and found guilty. She was committed to the Industrial school, but before she was taken to the institution, the court permitted her to return to her mother. Subsequently she was again brought before the juvenile court and execution of the previous order of the court sending her to the Industrial school, was directed, and the girl was turned over to the school authorities.

At the time of the first hearing in the juvenile court, which was in the latter part of last summer, Miss Dempsey was under 18 years of age, but as she had passed that age at the time of the second hearing, the mother claims the court had lost jurisdiction.

Judge Higgins' argument, as well as that of Attorney Christensen, was purely on legal questions. He held that the action of the juvenile court was continuous from the beginning of the first proceedings to the execution of the commitment. He held that, when the girl was permitted to return to her mother, she was simply placed on parole, or probation, the court having jurisdiction of her all the time. He contended that the commitment of the girl to the Industrial school was legal in every respect and the state may require her to remain at the school until she is 21 years old, if it so desires.

Taking up the other side of the question, Mr. Christensen maintained that the two proceedings of the juvenile court were entirely separate and distinct, and that there could be no legal interlocking. He said that the girl was past 18 at the last hearing and was outside the jurisdiction of the juvenile court. It was his judgment that when the court released the girl and she was permitted to return to her home, the first proceedings were at an end, and that the subsequent proceedings were new and illegal.

CHORUS LEADER HERE TO DRILL A CHOIR OF 100 VOICES

Albert Simpson Reitz, the chorus leader who is to direct the music during the United Christian revival services at the tabernacle, Twenty-seventh street and Washington avenue, has arrived in Ogden to organize and drill a choir of 100 voices. This choir will be composed largely of singers recruited from the nine churches joining in the services.

Director Reitz came to Ogden from Sioux City, Ia., where he has been assisting Henry Ostrom, the Evangelist, during a series of services which have been very successful.

Dr. Ostrom will reach Ogden early next week, remaining in the east for a rest.

Not only is the chorus leader well known because of his association with Evangelist Ostrom for six years, but he has attained prominence also as a composer having written a number of hymns. His home is at Junction City, Kansas.

BRYAN RUSHING OUT TELEGRAMS

Messages Against President's Position on Submarine Warfare—Urges Speedy Action by Congress.

Washington, Feb. 25.—Telegrams to Congressmen from William Jennings Bryan, supporting the movement for warning Americans off armed ships, began arriving today. Representative Bailey of Pennsylvania received one and planned to read it from the floor. Representative Bailey after a conference with Majority Leader Kitchin, however, simply made public the telegram which follows:

Urges Speedy Action. "I honestly hope that congress will speedily announce legislation refusing passports to Americans traveling on belligerent ships, or still better refusing clearance to belligerent ships carrying American passengers. No owner of belligerent ships will claim that he has the right to safeguard a contraband cargo with American lives and no citizen should be permitted to endanger the peace of the nation at a time like this.

"Ours is the greatest of the neutral nations and probably will be the mediator when the time comes for mediation. It would be a crime against civilization as well as against our own people to become involved in this war and thus loan our army and navy to a European monarch to use in settling his quarrels.

"If congress has the right to declare war, it certainly has the right to promote peace by restraining citizens from taking unnecessary risks. A mayor keeps the people of his city out of the danger zone during a riot. Can our government afford to do less when the world is in riot?"

"That is right," Representative Bailey quoted Mr. Kitchin as saying, when he reads the telegram.
